

“The Integrated Encyclopedia of the Qur’an is a laudable and absolutely essential work. These volumes will soon be in every library in the West. It is a great contribution to the academic field of Qur’anic Studies.”

“The Integrated Encyclopedia of the Qur’an provides Muslim as well as non-Muslim readers access to a world of erudite Muslim scholarship that is not easily accessible in any other way. This exceptional undertaking is of value both to Muslims and to others for whom high-quality scholarship on the Qur’an written from a Muslim perspective has been hard to access in languages other than Arabic. Scholars of all types will benefit from this direct insight into the fascinating world of Qur’anic scholarship and tradition.”

Andrew Colin Gow
Professor and Director of Religious Studies
University of Alberta, AB, Canada

“At a time when secular and epistemologically racist Anglo-European approaches to the Qur’ā seek to determine the horizon of Qur’anic studies by brazenly ignoring over a thousand years of the Islamic intellectual tradition’s reflections on its own scripture, the presence of the Integrated Encyclopedia of the Qur’ān (IEQ) could not be more essential.
